Football Rally Brings Spirit to University Team

APPLAUSE, SONGS, YELLS GREET DEFENDERS OF HAWAII'S GRID HONORS

"Varsity, here's hoping you win! But win or lose—we're with you to the end!"

This was the keynote of the snappy football rally held Friday at the A.S. U.H. meeting, when some 200 students crowded into Gartley hall.

The yell leader, Dyfrig Forbes, emphasized the need of backing up the team and received an enthusiastic response from the student body in the Varsity yell. The spirit of pep was contagious and the sky-rocket that followed was a mighty roar. Professor Crawford urged the students to turn in yells so that a booklet of college songs and yells could be published for student use.

"Make, borrow, or steal them," he said. "You get the yells, and we'll get the books to put them in. Stick to the end—win or lose."

Coach Klum warned the student body not to expect too much of the team, saying, "The team is working hard, but as yet we haven't come up to the point. Our ace in the game is the spirit of fight you put behind us."

Captain Jacobson answered Coach Klum with "We're going out tomorrow to do or die. That's the idea. And we'll reach the 'point' tomorrow."

The rally closed with the singing of the Alma Mater.

A short business meeting preceded the rally. The recommendation of the Executive Committee that the A.S.U. H. recognize the Adelphi club was accepted. It was also agreed that the members pay an admission fee of 25c at each pre-League game. President Jacobson stated that the A.S.U.H. has about $1000 in the savings bank and $2000 laid by to offset the expenses of bringing over the Pomona team.

Many Students Favor French and Spanish

French and Spanish are the most popular elective subjects among the students in the College of Arts and Sciences.

Mathematics, under Professor Donaghho, is next in popularity. Zoology, under Professor Edmondson, comes third in the list.

The following is a list of subjects showing their popularity: French, 89 students, Prof. Pecker; Spanish, 75 students, Prof. Pecker; mathematics I, 68, Prof. Donaghho; zoology, 56, Prof. Edmondson; history 2, 48, Prof. Leebrick; art and design I, 47, Prof. Chipman; botany I, 43, Prof. Pollock; chemistry, 42, Prof. Wrenshall.

Women Eligible to Honor Society

Women students will be admitted to the Honor society on the same footing as the men, according to the decision reached by the members of the society after much discussion and careful consideration.

It was agreed that from the standpoint of student activities, the following persons be declared eligible for membership:

Officers of the A.S.U.H., including the yell leader and the athletic manager; members of the Student council; captains of the athletic teams in major sports; leaders of recognized organizations on the campus.

Proceeds of "Adam and Eva" To Aid Students

A significant piece of news for the University was brought forth at a meeting held Thursday, when the Dramatic club unanimously voted to give the proceeds from "Adam and Eva" to the University R.O.T.C. battalion to assist in buying their sabers. It is hoped that the battalion will back this play as enthusiastically as possible in order to make the production a complete success.

There have been two unavoidable changes in the cast of the play. Montgomery Clarke '26 will take the role of Dr. Delameter in place of Koa Cook '25, who will replace Francis Bowers '24 as Mr. King.

The Dramatic club, one of the most active organizations on the campus, has been holding meetings every week since the college opened, and as a result, the fall play is now well under way with Prof. Hunt as coach.

Five members of the Dramatic club presented "The Flower Shop," which was first given at a "pep" night at the University last year, at a Central Union church social Wednesday evening. The cast included Benita Clarke, Cynthia Kinnard, Robert Hope, Koa Cook and Theodore Waters.

The following new members have

Doubleheaders Schedule For Week-End Clash

Another double-header is in store for football fans Saturday at Cooke field, when the Varsity meets a service team from Fort Ruger, and the second Varsity plays the Buff and Blue of Punahou.

Fort Ruger is said to have a strong team, an exceptionally fast backfield, and a competent coach. It is expected that the game will test all the powers of the Green and White and that a large number of University backers will be on hand to see the game.

The preliminary game will be of special interest to those following the prep school activities, as it will give fans a basis for comparison between Punahou and McKinley, who met the second team last week. The second team should put up a strong fight against them, and the game will undoubtedly be of interest from all viewpoints.

Season Opens With Surprise Grid Triumph

SECOND TEAM DOWNS MICKS IN CURTAIN RAISER BY 15-6 SCORE

At last it seems as if the jinx, which has been hovering over the Varsity football outfits for some time, has been broken. Saturday's double victory is the omen for a successful season and proved that the University has a real team, a team worth working and fighting for.

In the big contest of the day Varsity eleven blanked the artillery men to the tune of 20-0. During the entire game the soldiers did not really menace the Green and White line. Though it was the first game of the season a good exhibition of football was put up, in spite of the frequent fumbling, especially by our men, and the fact that the backs got in each other's way at times.

During the first quarter the teams went up and down the field, but neither scored. A long pass, Wise to Blaisdell, a shorter pass, and a few bucks paved the way for the first touchdown when Wise bucked over the line. Goal was kicked by Morse.

No further scoring occurred until the beginning of the second half, when Lambert followed a long end run by taking the ball over. The additional point was not made.

Neil Blaisdell made the last touchdown in the fourth quarter and Morse converted.

Johnny Morse, formerly of Lowell high school, San Francisco, at end did the punting for the Manoaites. Not one punt was blocked, showing that he got them away in snappy time and that the line aided him to advantage. All the men on the team showed good form for the first game and give promise of furnishing excellent material for future games.

The Varsity showed up well in the overhead game, finishing three of the six passes they attempted and not having any intercepted. On the other hand, the Artillery completed only six of their attempted 23 passes, and had three intercepted at critical times. The Varsity lost ground on penalties, two of them being for fifteen yards each for holding.

In the first game the Varsity second team upset the football dopesters and romped home with the Micks to the tune of 15-6. This game was not a cinch for the green jersey men by (Continued on page 3)

The tournament which was given last fall for the Press Congress will not be repeated this year. The big annual tournament will come as usual in the spring on the Saturday nearest May 20.

ALUMNI ADOPT CONSTITUTION

The adoption of a constitution was the purpose of the meeting of the Alumni Association Friday night at the University cafeteria. Later President Leslie Hicks will appoint a temporary board of governors.

University to Conduct Egg-Laying Contest

An egg-laying contest, lasting a year, to begin Nov. 1, is one of the projects undertaken by the Poultry Department of the University, with the cooperation of the Extension Service. The purpose of the contest is to stimulate the poultry industry in the Territory and to prove that large egg production is easily possible under Hawaiian conditions.

Persons interested financially in poultry are sending five of their best hens to the University farm, where they will be fed and cared for during the year. Daily records will be kept of each hen so that the daily and total egg production of each and of each group will be known. Prizes will be awarded for the best hens.

Financial assistance has been contributed by Honolulu firms and individuals interested in the poultry business.

Short Sugar Course Begins

The short sugar course, conducted by the University and the H.S.P.A. experiment station, to be continued for two weeks, opened Monday with a large number of plantation men attending.

Lectures, followed by discussions of various problems connected with the sugar industry, and visits to the experiment stations constitute the daily program of the sugar men. The federal experiment station and the territorial board of agriculture and forestry are also cooperating with the above mentioned institutions in carrying on the short course.

Pomona Loses First Grid Game of Season

Pomona College's eleven, which will meet the Varsity this winter, lost its first game of the season to the University of Southern California by a 54-13 score. This score is even more one-sided than that of last season when U.S.C. beat Pomona 35-7, but Southern California enthusiastic supporters claim that it is the best team on the coast this year, and the fact that Pomona was able to score twice speaks well for the offensive strength of Hawaii's future opponents.

Pomona will start its regular season Oct. 21, when California Tech will journey to Claremont for the initial Southern California Conference game of the year.

Literary Society Program Pleases Members

Members of the Literary society were given a real treat Saturday when Laurence Lit Lau, Dorothea Krauss and Beatrice Chong entertained the society with their talks and reading. The program was as follows:

Psychoanalysis of Literary Men—Laurence Lit Lau.

Fresh-air Camp Experiences—Dorothea Krauss.

"The Brook," by Tennyson—Beatrice Chong.

A short business meeting followed the program, at which the committees on the society pin and on the revision of membership regulations made their reports. All members of the society will cast their votes this week with Gwenfread Allen, chairman of the membership committee, regarding the acceptance of the recommendations of the committee.

Errors Made In Counting Votes

S. Yamaguchi '25 was elected to the student "Y" Council as recorder, and not James Chun '24, as was previously announced. Yamaguchi will serve as secretary of local affairs and recorder for mainland connections.

OFFER PRIZES AT MASQUERADE

Prizes will be awarded for the most original and tasty costumes worn at the Halloween masquerade to be given by the Adelphi club, according to present plans of the committee in charge.

A grand march will usher in the dancing, which will be the main diversion of the evening. Special stunts by club members will probably be given.

Y. M. C. A. Gives Stag Social For Students

Plenty of real pep, lively games, good eats, fun, music and speeches filled the program of the Y.M.C.A. men's social held in Hawaii hall Friday evening.

When the "advertisement teams," of which there were four, were organized, the fun of the evening began. It started with a yell contest, in which each team exhibited originality and pep. Addison Kinney's team easily won the judge's favor by its graceful bows.

The "faculty fight," in which Professors Neil and Lee competed in the peanut race, was a treat to the students. The "bottle-candle-balancing," which gave much delight to the onlookers as well as to the wiggling contestants, and the "body tug-o-war," which injected life to the teams, were both well appreciated.

Charles Bourne's rendition of a cornet solo, accompanied by Ernest Kai, received much applause from the audience.

After briefly relating the history of the Y.M.C.A., in his speech of welcome to the new members, Pres. Merlyn Forbes stated that the purpose of the organization was to 'serve' and help students in character building. "The word Christianity scares a fellow nowadays. But how many of you here tonight do not believe in the principles laid down by that great teacher, Jesus Christ?" ended Forbes.

After singing Aloha Oe and the Alma Mater, the small but happy crowd disbanded.

The members of the committee, which was largely responsible for the success of the evening were: Lit Lau, chairman; A. Brash, R. Ching, K. Hirano and A. Cornelison. Dwight Rugh's assistance must not be overlooked.

WOMEN'S GROUPS ORGANIZED

Discussion groups for women students began Monday noon, under the leadership of Miss Grace Stockwell of the Y.W.C.A. and University girls interested in the movement. "Student Standard of Action," containing 12 questions concerning student affairs, which is the book used by the Y.M.C.A. groups, will be the book used.

MRS. CRAWFORD SAILS FOR COAST

Mrs. D. L. Crawford, wife of Prof. Crawford of the entomology department, left suddenly for the coast Saturday noon upon receipt of word telling of the serious illness of her father who is in San Diego.

TO SELL TICKETS FOR PLAY

The Hawaii Alpha Chapter of Theta Alpha Phi took action Friday to aid the University Dramatic club, promising to take over 200 tickets, organize itself as a team, and conduct a lively selling campaign. The members plan to use the idea of raising money for the University R.O.T.C. to further ticket selling.

Ten Days On Fanning

C. T. EDMONDSON.

Should life in Hawaii become humdrum and altogether too dry and monotonous, why not try Fanning? Fanning Island, as all students of islandography know, is a small coral atoll that peeps above the surface of the Pacific about 1100 miles south of Honolulu.

Through the courtesy of the Pacific Cable Board and Captain Menmuir, of the Pacific Cable schooner "Tangaroa," the writer, accompanied by Dr. S. C. Ball, of the Bishop Museum, had the good fortune to make a short visit to Fanning Island during the past summer. Since this expedition was biologically inclined, its chief interest lay in the investigation of the fauna and flora of the island and the waters around about. This article, however, is not concerned so much with the scientific results of the expedition as it is with some general impressions and observations of the writer made during the brief stay on Fanning.

Leaving Honolulu on the morning of the 13th of July, we wended our watery way southward on the "Tangaroa." The "Tangaroa" is not what one might truthfully call an ocean greyhound. Even her most admiring friends do not speak enthusiastically of her progressiveness. One afflicted with mal-de-mer might even at times consider this trim little ship a "standpatter," if he were able to consider at all. The speed of the "Tangaroa" depends upon the good offices of Providence supplemented by the mate's whistle, in bringing a good strong trade wind. Under the latter conditions the good ship rolls along at a speed of from five to seven knots per hour. In spite of the fact that we sailed from Honolulu on the 13th day of the month and reached that port again on the 13th day of the following month, "Lady Luck" was a constant attendant during the long voyage.

On the afternoon of the second Sunday out from Honolulu, shortly after church services had closed, a hazy line appeared above the horizon ahead, which was said to be Fanning, and so it proved to be. As we drew nearer this faint haze gradually resolved itself into a definite outline of coconut trees and a white line of sandy beach made its appearance. It was a most pleasing sight. Not until early Monday morning, however, the eleventh day from Honolulu, did we reach the anchorage and land by means of boats from the British cable station located cable station was a passenger on the "Tangaroa," and on landing arrangements were soon made for our accommodation at the station.

In 1798 Captain Edmund Fanning of the American ship "Betsy" discovered the island that bears his name. It is of the lagoon type, roughly oval in outline with the long dimension northwest and southwest. The atoll is about 9½ miles in length and about one-half that distance in greatest breadth. The land area comprises about 15 square miles disposed as a ring about the lagoon averaging nearly half a mile in width, with a maximum elevation of about 8 feet above sea level. The Statesman's Year Book for 1921 gives the position of Fanning as 3° 50' No. and 150° W. There are three breaks in the land rim which connect the lagoon with the sea, the north and south canoe passages both of which are shallow, and a much wider and deeper channel on the south-west side which is navigable for vessels of light draft. Inside the lagoon at the south side of the channel is sufficient room for several small vessels, this position bearing the name of English Harbor. About 4½ miles northeast of the harbor outside the reef opposite the site of the cable station is a safe anchorage for ships.

SCRAP BOOK TO BE KEPT

The Executive Committee, at its meeting on Oct. 3, decided to assume the responsibility for the scrap book and photograph album, which before this have been kept by the University library. Wilson Jacobson, President of the A.S.U.H., was authorized to appoint a committee of three to care for these books. The committee is: Gwenfread Allen '24, chairman; Benita Clarke, '24, Robert Hope '25. It is expected that two more persons will be appointed to this committee.

Miss Allen urges that all students who have photographs that might be used in the photograph album, submit them to her.

PLACE OF A COLLEGE NEWSPAPER

By K. C. Leebrick

The students of the University of Hawaii have decided that they will establish a newspaper. It is clear that they feel that there is a need for such an activity and medium of expression. The determination to have a student paper raises pertinent questions, such as, what is to be the policy of the paper? what should be its news content? what influence will it have in student life? The writer has been asked to give his views as to the proper function of a university newspaper published by the students. (Begin new paragraph with the writer.)

Let us first be clear what we are talking about. There are many publications issued by the students of universities, and all have a place in student life. There are literary magazines, numerous publications, papers and magazines of professional schools, such as law reviews, agricultural journals, etc., pictorial reviews, university honor and professional fraternal publications, etc. University records or annuals published by students are almost universal. In addition to all these, most colleges and universities have student newspapers published weekly, several times a week, or even daily. It is the place of such newspapers that we are now considering.

The place of a college newspaper. A survey of the university newspapers shows a wide variety. Some are in reality daily newspapers, printing local, national and international news of all kinds as well as news of the university itself. Other papers print a small amount of selected general news items, most of the space being devoted to news of the university. Many student papers publish only university news; some go so far as to present only student news; that is, they do not feature general university and faculty news items.

Most student newspapers are the official organs of the student association, and are controlled and financed by it as are other student activities. Such official papers often stimulate the irregular publication of "independent" papers which seek to set forth the ideas of a few individuals or a larger organized group.

A student newspaper should do the following things:

(1) It should present student and university news. This is necessary for the proper functioning of student government. It is as necessary for the student citizens of a university to be informed as it is for citizens in every day life. A student paper is the best judge of news values and of the most effective manner of presentation. If the paper properly presents news, the student body and faculty will be informed of what is going on, this will greatly aid university work, in the

any means—it was a fight from start to finish.

The University scored first on a well delivered forward pass, McNicoll to Ikuta, who traveled 10 yards to a touchdown. Ault kicked goal. During the rest of the first half, both teams fought desperately to score, but only see-sawed up and down the field.

In the beginning of the second half Kwong, McKinley left tackle, picked up a Varsity fumble and ran 25 yards to a touchdown. By a series of savage line bucks and runs the Varsityites came back at the Micks with a touchdown by McNicoll. The try for goal failed.

The last score of the day was made by the Varsity when the punter for the Micks received a poor pass from center, the ball went over his head, and, while he was attempting to get it back in the field of play, the Varsity nabbed him behind the line for a safety.

A large crowd turned out for the game and capably handled by the managerial staff, aided by Professor Palmer, who generously gave up the faculty picnic to assist with the work.

classrooms, in student activities both in and out of the study halls.

(2) The paper should be the official organ of the student government. It should have an editorial policy. It should help to mold student opinion and to present the students' point of view to the faculty and to the general public. It should also have space for independent student opinion.

(3) It should seek to give the students an opportunity to express themselves in print, to stimulate interest in the use of good English and to test out the power of the written word. Yet it should not be a literary magazine, it should be a newspaper.

The Place of a College Newspaper.

(4) If it does the things, indicated above, it also gives the students the opportunity to know how news is gathered, printed, used, and how it affects those who read. This is a very valuable service in a democratic government and in schools which have, as one of their chief objects, the training for good citizenship.

In brief, a student newspaper should seek to represent truly and to portray student life in the University. It should not try to be a general newspaper. The student needs to read the daily papers. A school of journalism, not the general student body, would be justified in trying to publish a regular newspaper for training purposes. A student newspaper should present, student activities—social, academic, athletic, literary, humorous and official—that is, the University organization regulations and policies. It should seek through an informed student body to encourage good university citizenship and to stimulate individual growth.

News from Those Who Have Left Us

"I am getting into the swing of life here and am beginning to like it," writes Samuel Fuller, ex-'25, from the United States Military Academy, West Point, New York, to Colonel A. G. Clarke, commandant of the R.O.T.C.

Life at West Point is not easy, judging from what Fuller says. "I have been rushed, shining brasses, memorizing general and special orders, drilling, etc. We just got back today from a five-day hike. Our average walk was about 12 miles a day.

"If I remember rightly, we had about 15 minutes to dress for reveille at 'Kam,' but here we have only eight. I hate to think of the easy time the boys at 'Kam' are having now. I used to think it was hard."

Postpone Journalism Course

Lack of finances and full schedules among the professors of the English department are given as the reasons for the cancellation of the course in journalism which was planned for this semester.

Tentative plans were made last semester with local newspaper men who showed a gratifying interest in the work, but the plans were not carried out. The hope is expressed, however, that when all obstacles are overcome that the same newspaper men will stand ready to cooperate with the University.

Football Notes

It has been remarked that the "rooting" at the games last Saturday had a lot to do with the two wins of the University.

There were only 118 Varsity supporters in the rooting section last Saturday. There should have been at least another hundred. Where were they? Don't you think that the team is worth supporting? If you do turn out next time for yelling practice.

The Varsity Jinx yell, Pa-one-one, certainly turned the trick Saturday, so claim those wise birds who are in on the know in matters concerning hoodoos, etc.

It is a pretty hard thing to pick out the stars in the first game on Saturday. Every man who went in is deserving of much credit for the good fight the team made. Each man in his own sphere of action did all in his power to make good. That they succeeded is evidenced by the score against McKinley, 15-6.

Petition to Fersen Wrong

The Hawaii Mirror neither upholds nor condemns the Science of Being, but it earnestly believes that every one who has something to say to the students, should be given the opportunity to address them

Our knowledge, if it rests upon such a flimsy basis that a stranger can upset it, does not deserve our respect. When a man is requested not to lecture to the students, it is only fair to assume that there is a good reason for the request, which is enough to make anyone curious to know the substance of the lectures that might have been delivered. Unquestionably the faculty would be justified in asking students whose thinking is easily muddled and students who expect to take studies that might be made more difficult if they must unlearn a lot of wrong ideas, to refrain from attending such lectures. Otherwise, college is the best place to become acquainted with such ideas. It does not matter if one is on the wrong track for a little while. Besides, one's instructors are always close at hand and may be turned to in times of doubt. These conditions afford the best opportunity to weigh evidence, to consider arguments, and to reach the most logical conclusion.

Arbor Day for the Juniors

Several persons were strolling across the campus the other morning when one of them, a junior, remarked that we ought to have a line of trees on either side of the road running from Vancouver Highway and Maile Way to Hawaii Hall, since the trees would afford shade in sunshine and shelter in rain.

A capital idea! In addition to giving shade and shelter, such an avenue of trees could add greatly to the beauty and charm of our campus.

Since it was a junior who made the remark, the junior class might consider the matter seriously. It has been seen that something is needed. The next step is to fill the need.

The juniors might set aside a day and designate it as Arbor Day. On this day let them plant on both sides of the road suitable trees, which eventually will grow into a picturesque avenue, and a memorial of the initiative and enterprise of the class of 1924.

With the trees planted, let the juniors care for them. At the end of the school year, they can intrust their responsibility to the succeeding junior class.

Greater unity will come to the class of 1924 through planting the trees, and making their care a recognized responsibility of the juniors, will aid in creating a powerful, wholesome class spirit. This spirit is needed more than the trees.

Captain Berger's Offer

Captain Harry Berger, renowned as the organizer and for many years the leader, of the Royal Hawaiian band, says that he would like to see more attention given to music in the University. He has expressed himself as being more than glad to give his time and skill for this cause. The Hawaii Mirror earnestly hopes that all those interested in music will meet, and invite Captain Berger to become their leader in effecting the greatest development of the talent among our students.

No Conflict With Football

At present the entire University, which includes the faculty and the faculty's wives, must strain every nerve to make the football season a success. No other varsity event such as the faculty picnic should be taking place when a game is on.

The Open Forum

To the Editor.

Allow me to congratulate you on your stand against the use of bees in the Flag Rush. It CERTAINLY was very unsportsmanlike to use these in a friendly contest. I did not notice that you mentioned the use of handcuffs, but I think that they also should be barred.

It really seems to me that the Flag Rush is too rough anyway, and so I suggest that you take the matter up in the columns of your paper and see if it would not be possible to have tic-tat-toe contests in its place. That would keep down the use of bad language because no one would have enough interest to say anything more than "OH FUDGE!"

The other thing that you certainly should stop is football. It teaches and encourages very bad manners. Only the other day I saw five men chase one man with the ball and jump on him. When the poor fellow rose his hair was mussed! Can YOU imagine anything so unsportsmanlike and cowardly? Another thing, they use plays in football that the other side does not expect. Imagine!

I certainly hope that you succeed in putting all the Blue Laws into effect and also a few of your own.

Yours very affectionately,
WALTER J. SHORT.

Dormitory News

(By Clifford McGrew, '25)

Some time ago, the members of the House of Inns, otherwise known as the University Dormitory, held a mass meeting. The subject discussed was "How Did the Cafe Procure Nero's Pet Bull, While Rome was Burning, For the House of Inns' Daily Banquet?" The Cafe is that portion of the campus known as the University Cafeteria. There were arguments pro and con as to why and how the pet of Nero was carried from Rome to Hawaii. Derricks and non-sinkable ships figured chiefly in the arguments. The next morning there were swollen and numb jaws and the injured had to be fed with warm milk for breakfast.

Nero's pet Bull affected Herb Cullen terribly that nite. The morning after he woke up shivering. Ask the occupants of Angels' Rest about it. He needs careful watch especially if he goes perambulating around at nite in a somnambulistic state.

The House Committee, consisting of nobody announces, that a telephone will be instituted at the House of Inns soon with double charges for Alexander and McGrew for its use.
